

Becoming a basketball referee can be a challenging and rewarding career

Newcastle Basketball is always on the lookout for potential referees and there is a defined Referee pathway if you are willing to take the next step.

How do I become a referee?

If you would like to become a referee the first step that you should take is contacting Newcastle Basketball.

Newcastle Basketball runs Level O courses for beginner Referees.

The course teaches the basics of refereeing – on court, positions, calling fouls and violations, and administering the game, and then you get to go out on court in one of our junior competitions to learn the practical side of refereeing.

Who do I contact for more information?
